MYLIUS OUTDOOR | MYLIUS + STUDIO PARISOTTO FORMENTON + UGO CARAGNANO

Aldo Parisotto of Parisotto + Formenton Architects has a long history with Mylius Yachts as both a consultant and a shipowner and is the main interior designer for all projects under development. He also works with first-line outdoor furniture designers Mylius + Studio Parisotto Formenton + Ugo Caragnano, whose collection of carbon-fiber pieces include dining and coffee tables, stools, folding chairs, lounge chairs, and hammocks. The project draws inspiration from Mylius' innovative philosophy on development and sustainability in the sailing world, along with its unique mix of functionality and aesthetics to explore new potential expressions. Design trends are moving towards greater contact with the outdoors, and Mylius applies this to an entire contemporary lifestyle in which aesthetic and sensory details from the boating sector combine with furniture design and accessories conceived for a multiplicity of outdoor functions. Carbon fiber, the iconic material of the segment in which the shipyard specializes, lends its hallmark lightness to new combinations with materials like leather and wood. This results in flexible, versatile outdoor pieces with an essential design and an innovative, sophisticated look suitable for any outdoor context, at sea or on dry land.
